CCAC-Schine Mission

The CCAC-SCHINE mission is to safeguard, restore and promote the Auburn Schine Theater Building in Auburn, New York, one of the few surviving Schine atmospheric theaters; considered a “jewel” in the famous Louis and Myer Schine Empire of cinemas.

Are Movie Palaces Important?

Sadly, too few landmark theaters still stand. Many have been chopped up into multiplexes or stripped of much of their ornamentation. A few are in danger of being demolished by those oblivious to the architectural and historical treasure a John Eberson house represents.

He called these movie palaces ..."the most palatial homes of princes and crowned kings for and on behalf of his excellency--the American Citizen." He was speaking a language perfected by advertisers, retailers, government officials, religious leaders, and heads of industry during the fifty+ years prior. Movie palaces demonstrate the anxieties, exhilarations and pitfalls of our culture. They sit as metaphors for the 'American Way,' perfect and purely majestic ...
